State of Wisconsin
Legislative Audit Bureau

August 24, 1993

To the Honorable the Legislature:

We have completed an evaluation of recycling market development efforts established by 1989 Wisconsin Act 335. As directed by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, our evaluation was limited to the financial assistance programs established by Act 335 and did not include an overall assessment of recycling in Wisconsin. The five financial assistance programs designed to encourage manufacturers to use recycled materials are offered by three agencies: the departments of Development and Natural Resources and the Wisconsin Housing and Economic Development Authority.

Currently, about 80 percent of Wisconsin communities report they operate voluntary or mandatory recycling programs. Most of these communities indicate they find it difficult to collect and sell certain of their recycled materials at prices equal to, or less than, landfill disposal costs. However, much of the state funding available to private businesses to encourage the use of recyclable materials has gone unused. The State has appropriated $32.2 million for the five business assistance programs through June 30, 1993, but only $6.4 million have been committed to projects.

Because markets are shaped by economic forces outside the control of the State, it is difficult to determine precisely the extent to which state efforts can influence the development of recycling markets. Nevertheless, recycling professionals and business representatives indicate state programs can play an important role in helping to stimulate market development and note that the State's Waste Tire Removal and Recycling program, which was established prior to Act 335, has influenced market behavior.

Based on the experience of Wisconsin's current market assistance programs and the comments of business and recycling professionals, we have identified a number of alternatives the Legislature could consider to broaden participation in the State's financial assistance programs and encourage the use of recycled materials. These alternatives include statutorily restructuring aspects of the programs, redirecting management efforts, and considering organizational changes.

We appreciate the courtesy and cooperation extended to us by business and community officials, members of the Council on Recycling, and staff of the departments of Natural Resources and Development, the University of Wisconsin-Extension, and the Wisconsin Housing and Economic Development Authority. Agency responses are Appendices IV through V.

Sincerely,
Dale Cattanach
State Auditor
